Year Of Call: 1965

Year Of Silk: 1996

Michael Blair is a specialist on financial services and financial services regulation and has been rated by Chambers and Partners as a "Star Individual" in that category for 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2016. His practice is mainly advisory. He joined Chambers in 2000 after serving as General Counsel to the Board of the (then) Financial Services Authority from 1998-2000, and as head of the legal function in its predecessor body, the Securities and Investments Board, from 1987-97. Before that he had served from 1982 to 1987 as an Under Secretary in the home civil service, latterly taking responsibility for the criminal and civil legal aid schemes in England and Wales as well as for the higher courts and matters affecting the legal profession.

Directory Quotes

"a deeply experienced silk who garners tremendous respect from the market . . he is sought out to guide his clients through the most turbulent regulatory waters"

Expertise

Financial Services

His practice is largely advisory though he led Robert Purves in 2016 in the in the Supreme Court in the leading appellate case on regulation of collective investment schemes (Asset Land v FCA). He has appeared before the Chancery Division (banking transfer schemes and insolvency proceedings with a financial services flavour), the Upper Tribunal (in relation to split capital investment trusts and, more recently, alleged unauthorised trading) and the former FSA's Regulatory Decisions Committee (enforcement proceedings). He has also been involved in other proceedings in the Chancery Division and Commercial Court, concerning a split capital investment trust and a professional negligence claim with a financial services context. He has appeared as an expert witness on UK financial regulation in Milan in two separate cases, and then in the Court of Appeal in Madrid. In each case the instructing bank was eventually successful.

Appointments

He is the President of the Panel of Senior Decision Makers appointed by the Guernsey Financial Services Commission, and the Chairman of the Disciplinary Panel of the London Metal Exchange. He is also the Chairman of the Legal Advisory Council for the new International Financial Centre in Kazakhstan, and a member of the Board of CME Europe Ltd, the US owned derivatives exchange in London. He was the Treasurer of his Inn of Court, the Middle Temple, in 2008, the Chairman of SWX Europe Ltd (the former Swiss equities exchange in London)(2008-9) and a member of the Board of the Dubai Financial Services Authority (2003-2013). He was a Member of the Competition Appeal Tribunal from 2000 until 2016, and has been involved in some of the leading cases decided there.
